

sieve plate), and try not to cut any of the internal organs as you cut through the skin. Remove the circular section that you just cut, then cut down the other side of the ray and remove that piece of skin as well. This should expose the internal organs of the starfish as shown in Figure 2.

Digestive system: You should be able to see the large digestive glands extending from the center of the starfish's body down each ray. These are attached to the pyloric stomach via pyloric ducts. Food is partially digested in the cardiac stomach, then passed through the pyloric system for further digestion. Inside the cardiac stomach, you might find small clams, mussels, or oysters that the starfish was eating at the time it was caught. Waste products are ejected through the anus, which lies at the top of the pyloric stomach. You probably will not be able to find the anus – it's a very tiny opening.

Removing the pyloric system: To get a better view, remove and set aside the pyloric system (including digestive glands) using your fingers or the tip of your scissors. As you remove the pyloric system from one ray you might find that the digestive glands from other rays get pulled with it. Tear or cut through the pyloric ducts of the other rays if needed to prevent this from happening.

The cardiac stomach lies below the pyloric stomach that you just removed. This stomach is inverted and pushed through the mouth during feeding. There it excretes digestive fluid to help break down its food before it is pulled back inside the starfish with the stomach for further digestion.
