Origin and Evolution of Earth National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Earth Sciences and Resources, Committee on Grand Research Questions in the Solid-Earth Sciences, 2008-08-04 Questions about the origin and nature of Earth and the life on it have long preoccupied human thought and the scientific endeavor Deciphering the planet's history and processes could improve the ability to predict catastrophes like earthquakes and volcanic eruptions to manage Earth's resources and to anticipate changes in climate and geologic processes At the request of the U S Department of Energy National Aeronautics and Space Administration National Science Foundation and U S Geological Survey the National Research Council assembled a committee to propose and explore grand questions in geological and planetary science This book captures in a series of questions the essential scientific challenges that constitute the frontier of Earth science at the start of the 21st century The Evolution of Earth and Man George Alfred Baitsell, 1929 Earth, Our Living Planet Philippe Bertrand, Louis Legendre, 2021-04-21 Earth is to our knowledge the only life bearing body in the Solar System This extraordinary characteristic dates back almost 4 billion years How to explain that Earth is teeming with organisms and that this has lasted for so long What makes Earth different from its sister planets Mars and Venus The habitability of a planet is its capacity to allow the emergence of organisms. What astronomical and geological conditions concurred to make Earth habitable 4 billion years ago and how has it remained habitable since? What have been the respective roles of non biological and biological characteristics in maintaining the habitability of Earth? This unique book answers the above questions by considering the roles of organisms and ecosystems in the Earth System which is made of the non living and living components of the planet. Organisms have progressively occupied all the habitats of the planet diversifying into countless life forms and developing enormous biomasses over the past 3.6 billion years. In this way organisms and ecosystems took over the Earth System and thus became major agents in its regulation and global evolution. There was co evolution of the different components of the Earth System leading to a number of feedback mechanisms that regulated long term Earth conditions. For millennia and especially since the Industrial Revolution nearly 300 years ago humans have gradually transformed the Earth System. Technological developments combined with the large increase in human population have led in recent decades to major changes in the Earth's climate, soils, biodiversity and quality of air and water. After some successes in the 20th century at preventing internationally environmental disasters, human societies are now facing major challenges arising from climate change. Some of these challenges are short term and others concern the thousand year evolution of the Earth's climate. Humans should become the stewards of Earth.

History of the Earth's Atmosphere

Michael I. Budyko, Alexander B. Ronov, Alexander L. Yanshin, 1987-03-16. The authors of this book have studied the changes in the chemical composition of the atmosphere during geological history with regard to its close relationship to the evolution of the Earth's sedimentary shell. Beginning in 1977 the initial results of this study have been published as articles and parts of several monographs. Since new material clarifying atmospheric evolution have been obtained recently the necessity has arisen to write a book treating the major results of investigations of the history of the atmosphere. In this book much consideration is given to the interrelation between the evolution of animate nature and changes in atmospheric composition. It proved necessary to study the history of the two components of atmospheric air: carbon dioxide and oxygen. Attempts have been made to represent quantitatively the conclusions drawn here, i.e. to determine by calculation the changes in the amount of carbon dioxide and oxygen over much of the history of the atmosphere. These calculations performed in most detail for the Phanerozoic and to a lesser degree for the Late Precambrian are supplemented with estimates of changes in the chemical composition of the atmosphere in the Early Precambrian. Comparisons have been drawn between the changes in the chemical composition of the atmosphere and the development of animate nature, a close relationship being found to exist between the stages of the evolution of organisms and variations in the chemical composition of the atmosphere.
