Evidence Based Conservation Lessons From The Lower Mekong The Earthscan Forest Library:

Evidence-based Conservation Terry C. H. Sunderland, Jeffrey Sayer, Minh Ha Hoang, 2013 The basis of this book is the disparity between the science of conservation biology and the design and execution of biodiversity conservation projects in the field The book argues for an evidence based approach drawing information from fifteen projects in the Lower Mekong regions with the aim of allowing more effective integrated conservation projects Redeeming REDD Michael I. Brown, 2013-06-26 It is now well accepted that deforestation is a key source of greenhouse gas emissions and of climate change with forests representing major sinks for carbon As a result public and private initiatives for reducing emissions from deforestation and forest degradation REDD have been widely endorsed by policy makers A key issue is the feasibility of carbon trading or other incentives to encourage land owners and indigenous people particularly in developing tropical countries to conserve forests rather than to cut them down for agricultural or other development purposes This book presents a major critique of the aims and policies of REDD as currently structured particularly in terms of their social feasibility It is shown how the claims to be able to reduce greenhouse gas emissions as well as enhance people s livelihoods and biodiversity conservation are unrealistic There is a naive assumption that technical or economic fixes are sufficient for success However the social and governance aspects of REDD and its enhanced version known as REDD are shown to be implausible Instead to enhance REDD s prospects the author provides a roadmap for developing a new social contract that puts people first

Smallholders, Forest Management and Rural Development in the Amazon Benno Pokorny, 2013-07-24 The ongoing debate concerning the Amazon s crucial role in global climate and biodiversity is entirely dependent upon sustainable development in the region Recognizing that forests are an integral part of the social fabric in the region initiatives such as community forestry small scale tree plantations and agroforestry as well as payments for environmental services have aimed at conserving the natural forest landscape At the same time these attempt to protect and enhance the well being of poor local smallholders including indigenous groups traditional communities and small farmers Against this background this book analyses numerous promising local tree and forest management initiatives taken by smallholders in the Bolivian Brazilian Ecuadorian and Peruvian Amazon to better understand the key success factors The insights gained from more than 100 case studies analyzed by researchers from Latin America and Europe in cooperation with local stakeholders reveal the need for critical reflection on the initiatives targeting poor Amazonian families The book discusses an operational vision of rural development grounded on the effective use of smallholders capacities to contribute to a sustainable and equitable development of the region It provides helpful information and ideas not only for scientists but also for development organisations decision makers and all who are interested in one of the major challenges facing the Amazon to combine equitable development with the conservation of its unique ecosystems

Large-scale Forest Restoration David Lamb, 2014-09-19 Landscapes are being degraded and simplified across the globe This book explores how forest restoration might be carried out to increase landscape heterogeneity improve ecological functioning and restore ecosystem services in such landscapes It focuses on large landscape scale reforestation because that is the scale at which restoration is needed if many of the problems that have now developed are to be addressed It also shows how large scale forest restoration might improve human livelihoods as well as improve conservation outcomes A number of governments have undertaken national reforestation programs in recent years some have been more successful than others The author reviews these to explore what type of reforestation should be used where this should be carried out and how much should be done For example are the traditional industrial forms of reforestation necessarily the best to use in all situations How can forest restoration be reconciled with the need for food security And are there spatial thresholds that must be exceeded to generate economic and environmental benefits The book also examines the policy and institutional settings needed to encourage large scale reforestation This includes a discussion of the place for incentives to encourage landholders to undertake particular types of reforestation and to reforest particular locations It also considers forms of governance that are likely to lead to an equitable sharing of the costs and benefits of forest restoration

Managing Forests as Complex Adaptive Systems Christian Messier, Klaus J. Puettmann, K. David Coates, 2013-02-11 This book links the emerging concepts of complexity complex adaptive system CAS and resilience to forest ecology and management It explores how these concepts can be applied in various forest biomes of the world with their different ecological economic and social settings and history Individual chapters stress different elements of these concepts based on the specific setting and expertise of the authors Regions and authors have been selected to cover a diversity of viewpoints and emphases from silviculture and natural forests to forest restoration and from boreal to tropical forests The chapters show that there is no single generally applicable approach to forest management that applies to all settings The first set of chapters provides a global overview of how complexity CAS and resilience theory can benefit researchers who study forest ecosystems A second set of chapters provides guidance for managers in understanding how these concepts can help them to facilitate forest ecosystem change and renewal adapt or self organize in the face of global change while still delivering the goods and services desired by humans The book takes a broad approach by covering a variety of forest biomes and the full range of management goals from timber production to forest restoration to promote the maintenance of biodiversity quality of water or carbon storage

Forests and Globalization William Nikolakis, John Innes, 2014-09-19 The overarching contribution of this book is a review and assessment of the current and future impacts of globalization on the world's forests The work has been developed by the Resources for the Future Task Force for the International Union of Forest Research Organizations IUFRO Four key themes are addressed the effect of globalization on forests including future trade flows plantations as the primary source of forest products and its consequences including plant breeding and forest health the effect of new products such as bio products and markets on forests and the emergence of forest ecosystem services and their impact on the landscape and human communities These four themes are examined in detail to map out the impacts of these trends for forests throughout the world and at multiple scales and how forest research needs to be adapted to address these trends Overall the volume provides a major synthesis of current thinking and knowledge on the topic for advanced students as well as policy makers and professionals in the forest sector

Towards a Vision for Biodiversity Conservation in the Forests of the Lower Mekong Ecoregion Complex M. C. Baltzer,2001

Water and Power Mart A. Stewart,Peter A. Coclanis,2018-12-12 This book brings together a talented international group of scholars policy practitioners and NGO professionals that explores a range of issues relating to environmental developmental and governing challenges on the Mekong one of the world s greatest rivers and alas one of the most endangered The book is divided into three sections devoted in turn to historical perspectives on the Lower Mekong Basin Issues relate to livelihood strategies environmental threats and adaptation strategies and various aspects of river governance with individual authors treating questions of governance at different levels of refraction and in different registers The result is a fresh and innovative collection of essays which taken together provide much needed new perspectives on some of the most important and seemingly intractable environmental and development issues in contemporary Asia
