The Evocative Object World Christopher Bollas, 2008-10-27 In The Evocative Object World Christopher Bollas builds on Freud's account of dream formation combining it with perceptive clinical theoretical and cultural insights to show how the psychoanalytical method can provide a rich understanding of what has traditionally been regarded as the outside world Moving from the fundamentals of the free associative technique through an examination of how architecture and the built environment interact with individual and societal dream life Bollas extends the work of psychoanalysis beyond relations with literature and culture to the actual objects which surround us As with the evocative external structures of our environment Bollas describes how the family with its inherited genetic structures likewise constitutes a pre-existent unconscious formation into which we are placed and demonstrates that there is more to this multifaceted unit than the traditional psychoanalytical notion of the Oedipal triangle In the process Bollas also provides a fascinating and comprehensive review of how his own theories have evolved over the past three decades a period during which in his view Western society has increasingly neglected or even become actively hostile towards unconscious life Throughout this engaging and accessible text Bollas rejects the simplistic notion that mental life is unconsciously determined Instead he provides a compelling study of how unconscious life is shaped by a diverse array of both internal and external factors and how the work of the Freudian pair provides the best means to gain insight into our dreams our surroundings our families and our mental life as a whole

Second Chance Ruth Rosengarten, 2022-08-23 In this intimate memoir Ruth Rosengarten explores the subject of evocative objects through a series of interconnected essays Evocative objects reflect our attitudes to our own lives and how we seek to display ourselves to ourselves They are therefore closely linked to our memories and how we filter process and reconstruct them Rosengarten explores the themes and associations invoked by her own evocative objects which are frequently shabby things of no material value They are importantly often objects that in their materiality bear traces of actions of something having been Through the associative pathways that these objects have paved she discusses her experiences with the losses she has undergone her family's migrations and what it means to be a childless woman This leads her to address the question of what will become of her storied objects and the memories attached to them when she is no longer in existence This memoir offers an interdisciplinary approach to collecting and compiling fragments of one's life paying close attention to the evocative objects that embody us In doing so these essays explore loss memory childlessness longing family history literature and art theory through material entities which reveal the immaterial things at the heart of this study This book is sure to be of interest to anyone stimulated by memory work and the relationship between humans and their possessions

The Evocative Object Julie Downie, 2013 The Evocative Object why objects matter is an exhibition based upon the idea that objects matter to us but what makes an object evocative may not necessarily be about value use aesthetics or ownership This is a discussion about how objects participate in the way we live out our lives as enrichments to our interiors as aids to remembering personal histories provocations for intellectual thinking signals to who we are as people and in essence how they help us locate ourselves within the world Page 2
