Disk streaming technology is advancing rapidly. Ardent, who were later acquired by Citrix, originally developed the disk streaming software now called Citrix Provisioning Services. Citrix Provisioning Services helps you stream a virtual disk across physical and virtual machines. It works at boot by using PXE to contact a TFTP server and pull down a small partition that registers the system. From there it starts sending the individual blocks of virtual disk to the system that needs to boot via the network.

Getting Started with Citrix Provisioning Services 7.0 is a hands-on implementation guide that helps you to learn about the installation, configuration, management, and operation of Citrix Provisioning Services in a step-by-step manner. This will help you to take advantage of the real power behind Citrix Provisioning Services. The book gives you a good grounding in operating Citrix Provisioning Services with practical implementations which are all fully backed up with code and illustrations. This book will help you get familiar with virtualization and its implications, starting with characteristics of virtualization such as single image management, consolidated control, and on-demand streaming of virtual disks to Enterprise systems and to their customers. In order to get a broader understanding of all the available features, you start with an overview of Citrix PVS before moving on to installation, configuration, and managing the system, allowing you to develop hands-on operational and administrative experience. You will also learn how to create a Vdisk as well as how to manage farms, sites, stores, and the Provisioning server using Citrix Provisioning Services. If you want to take advantage of disk streaming using Citrix Provisioning Services, then this is the book for you. With this book, you will learn everything you need to know about Citrix Provisioning Services from an administrator's standpoint.

Citrix Presentation Server allows remote users to work off a network server as if they weren't remote. That means incredibly fast access to data and applications for users, no third-party VPN connection, and no latency issues. All of these features make Citrix Presentation Server a great tool for increasing access and productivity for remote users. Unfortunately, these same features make Citrix just as dangerous to the network it's running on. By definition, Citrix is granting remote users direct access to corporate servers; achieving this type of access is also the holy grail for malicious hackers. To compromise a server running Citrix Presentation Server, a hacker need not penetrate a heavily defended corporate or government server. They can simply compromise the far more vulnerable laptop, remote office, or home office of any computer connected to that server by Citrix Presentation Server. All of this makes Citrix Presentation Server a high-value target for malicious hackers. And although it is a high-value target, Citrix Presentation Servers and remote workstations are often relatively easily hacked because they are often times deployed by overworked system administrators who haven't even configured the most basic security features offered by Citrix. The problem, in other words, isn't a lack of options for securing Citrix instances; the problem is that administrators aren't using them. eWeek, October 2007. In support of this assertion Security researcher Petko D Petkov aka pdp said in an Oct 4 posting that his recent testing of Citrix gateways led him to tons of wide open Citrix instances including 10 on government domains and four on military domains The most comprehensive book published for system administrators providing step by step instructions for a secure Citrix Presentation Server Special chapter by Security researcher Petko D Petkov aka pdp detailing tactics used by malicious hackers to compromise Citrix Presentation Servers Companion Web site contains custom Citrix scripts for administrators to install configure and troubleshoot Citrix Presentation Server
