The State of Capitalism Costas Lapavistas, EReNSEP Writing Collective, 2023-08-29 Thinking beyond pandemic capitalism The health emergency that broke out in 2020 is a landmark event in the development of capitalism confirming the underlying change signalled by the Great Crisis of 2007 9 The pandemic has catapulted the state to the centre of economic activity However a historic impasse is steadily becoming apparent at the core of the world economy Productive accumulation is flaccid as both profitability and labour productivity are weak Financialisation has entered a new phase as shadow banking grew relative to other banks but is entirely dependent on the state The power of the state derives from command over fiat money and can certainly deliver enormous boosts to aggregate demand but that is not enough to tackle the weakness of the productive sector The rise in inflation for the first time in forty years indicates the impasse There is a transparent need for intervention on the supply side directly challenging capitalist property rights There is no evidence however that the ruling blocs in core countries would engage in such policies The pandemic crisis also brought to the fore fresh divisions of core and periphery across the world economy Imperialism has assumed new forms spurred by globally active financial capital and internationalised productive capital A renewed contest for hegemony has emerged as US power declined The economic challenge of China will unfold steadily in the years ahead intensifying political tensions and military rivalries This book is the work of a research collective comprising authors from several parts of the world It analyses these vital issues from the perspective of Marxist political economy and puts forth alternative anticapitalist proposals

Revisiting Globalization and the Rise of Global Production Networks S. Javed Maswood, 2017-07-24 This book takes issue with the likening of contemporary globalization to nineteenth century trade interdependence in which the defining feature of contemporary globalization is the spread of global production networks which were notably absent in the past Maswood demonstrates that the emergence of global production networks GPNs was not a result of economic and trade liberalization but instead due to neo protectionist developments in the 1980s that acted as a catalyst to transform Japan s nationally based production networks into the now ubiquitous GPNs Through this case study of Japan the author lays out a case for reconsidering the origins of globalization and explores some of the consequences that are likely to flow from progressive evolutionary transition towards a global economy clothing industry co ordinate and govern their global production networks value chains Global Production Networks Neil M. Coe,2010 Understanding and conceptualizing the complexities of the contemporary global economy is a challenging but vitally important task In this article we critically evaluate the potential of one interpretive framework the global production networks GPN perspective for analysing the global economy and its impacts on territorial development After situating the approach in relation to other cognate chain network approaches the article proceeds to review and evaluate a number of underdeveloped areas that need to be understood and incorporated more fully if the framework is to deliver on its early potential The article concludes with a consideration of the key research issues facing work in this area Global Production Networks and Regional Integration ,2003 Innovation System Frontiers Brian Wixted,2009-06-12 Recent economic transformations in the world economy are progressing in two divergent directions international production fragmentation and industrial agglomeration Based on extensive data analysis and using models of interdependencies between key economies this book analyses innovation systems that cross national borders It is shown that technological complexity is an important factor in the formation of highly specific production networks and why for a number of production systems fragmentation and clustering are two sides of the same coin By outlining the picture of a world economy structured around networks of clusters and joined together through systems of linkages of components people and knowledge flows the author helps to promote a better understanding of recent economic transformations
