Recent Advances in Visual Information Systems SShi-Kuo Chang, Zen Chen, Suh-Yin Lee, 2002-02-27

Visual information systems are information systems for visual computing Visual computing is computing on visual objects Some visual objects such as images are inherently visual in the sense that their primary representation is the visual representation Some visual objects such as data structures are derivatively visual in the sense that their primary representation is not the visual representation but can be transformed into a visual representation Images and data structures are the two extremes Other visual objects such as maps may fall somewhere in between the two Visual computing often involves the transformation from one type of visual objects into another type of visual objects or into the same type of visual objects to accomplish certain objectives such as information reduction object recognition and so on In visual information systems design it is also important to ask the following question who performs the visual computing The answer to this question determines the approach to visual computing For instance it is possible that primarily the computer performs the visual computing and the human merely observes the results It is also possible that primarily the human performs the visual computing and the computer plays a supporting role Often the human and the computer are both involved as equal partners in visual computing and there are visual interactions Formal or informal visual languages are usually needed to facilitate such visual interactions

The SAGE Handbook of Visual Research Methods Eric Margolis, Luc Pauwels, 2011-07-31 This book captures the state of the art in visual research Margolis and Pauwels have brought together in one volume a unique survey of the field of visual research that will be essential reading for scholars and students across the social sciences arts and humanities The SAGE Handbook of Visual Research Methods encompasses the breadth and depth of the field and points the way to future research possibilities It illustrates cutting edge as well as long standing and recognized practices This book is not only about research it is also an example of the way that the visual can be incorporated into data collection and the presentation of research findings Chapters describe a methodology or analytical framework its strengths and limitations possible fields of application and practical guidelines on how to apply the method or technique The Handbook is organized into seven main sections Framing the Field of Visual Research Producing Visual Data and Insight Participatory and Subject Centered Approaches Analytical Frameworks and Approaches Visualization Technologies and Practices Moving Beyond the Visual Options and Issues for Using and Presenting Visual Research Eric Margolis is an Associate Professor in the Hugh Downs School of Human Communication He is President of the International Visual Sociology Association Luc Pauwels is Professor of Visual Culture at the University of Antwerp He is Chair of the Visual Communication Studies Division of the ICA and Vice President of the International Visual Sociology Association IVSA GeoWorld ,2003 Multimedia Databases and Image Communication Maurizio Tucci,2003-06-30 Multimedia technologies are rapidly attracting more and more interest every day The Internet as seen from the end user is one of the reasons for this phenomenon but not the only one Video on Demand is one of the buzzwords today but its real availability to the general public is yet to come Content providers such as publishers broadcasting companies and audio video production rms must be able to archive and index their productions for later retrieval This is a formidable task even more so when the material to be sorted encompasses many different types of several media and covers a time span of several years In order for such a vast amount of data to be easily available existing database design models and indexing methodologies have to be improved and refined In addition new techniques especially tailored to the various types of multimedia must be devised and evaluated For archiving and transmission data compression is another issue that needs to be addressed In many cases it has been found that compression and indexing can be successfully integrated since compressing the data by filtering out irrelevancy implies some degree of understanding of the content structure ArcView GIS/Avenue Developer's Guide Amir H. Razavi,1999 This new edition on the basics of the programming language of ArcView shows readers how to customize the ArcView GIS interface create and test scripts produce hardcopy maps and integrate ArcView GIS with other applications New information has been added on programming Spatial Analyst and other extensions and programming with Shape Files and scale based graphics A companion diskette has been fully updated for use with version 3.1 GIS World ,1997 Geographical Information Systems Paul Longley,2005-05-03 CD ROM contains full text in searchable PDF format and color image gallery Inside ArcInfo John J.
