

The background image shows the interior of a grand, domed structure, likely a library or a historical building. The ceiling is a complex, grid-like dome with a series of recessed, diamond-shaped panels. Two large, circular skylights are visible: one near the top center and another lower down on the right side, both allowing bright light to enter. The lower part of the image shows the dark, fluted columns of a gallery or balcony, creating a sense of depth and scale.

Global Encounters Iris Guske, 2011-05-25 Scholars throughout the world have come together again in a second book to share their most successful teaching practices and concerns in the areas of cross cultural studies and international education. Many disciplines are represented and diverse subjects are discussed: science literacy and worldview perspective, second language acquisition, student mobility and international universities, teacher professional development and government programs for disadvantaged children, zoos, industrial paintings and dress designs as cultural artifacts. Presentations on these topics are the result of papers given at the annual meeting of the Worldwide Forum on Education and Culture, founded 10 years ago in Rome, Italy. The organization regularly attracts some 100 scholars and practitioners in the fields of education, literacy, language learning, communication and inter cultural studies from all five continents to its annual congress in Rome. These conferences, as well as this up to date compilation of multi disciplinary academic papers, are meant to highlight the growing need for culturally sensitive education that draws on the strengths of both traditional teaching methods and technology rich forms of instruction, as well as a host of national and international programs designed to empower teachers and students alike. Engaged educators whose research and/or critical discourse in classrooms all over the world has given rise to the present volume thus hope to share with a wider audience how they impart knowledge, foster skills and nurture qualities in the next generation of global citizens that will enable them to negotiate their personal and professional lives in our modern world. Even though communities may no longer be characterized by physical distances as barriers to communicative interchanges, perceived and real rifts between different cultures are nevertheless coming alarmingly close to preventing meaningful communication from bringing about true understanding at the individual and societal levels. The ontogenesis of the Worldwide Forum on Education and Culture is seen here clearly in the perspectives and presentations of diverse academics who are dedicated to teaching and learning toward the greater goal, as Matthew Arnold said in Literature and Science, of knowing ourselves and the world.

War and Displacement in the Twentieth Century Sandra Barkhof, Angela K. Smith, 2014-03-14 Human displacement has always been a consequence of war, written into the myths and histories of centuries of warfare. However, the global conflicts of the twentieth century brought displacement to civilizations on an unprecedented scale, as the two World Wars shifted participants around the globe. Although driven by political disputes between European powers, the consequences of Empire ensured that Europe could not contain them. Soldiers traversed continents and civilians often followed them or found themselves living in territories ruled by unexpected invaders. Both wars saw fighting in Europe, Africa, the Middle East and the Far East, and few nations remained neutral. Both wars saw the mass upheaval of civilian populations as a consequence of the fighting. Displacements were geographical, cultural and psychological; they were based on nationality, sex, gender or age. They produced an astonishing range of human experience, recorded by the participants in different ways. This book brings together a collection of inter disciplinary works by scholars who are currently producing some of the most innovative and influential work on the subject of displacement in war in order to share their knowledge and interpretations of historical and literary sources The collection unites historians and literary scholars in addressing the issues of war and displacement from multiple angles Contributors draw on a wealth of primary source materials and resources including archives from across the world military records medical records films memoirs diaries and letters both published and private and fictional interpretations of experience
