Worksheet 3: Circus Trouble

Name: _____

The traveling circus had elephants, animals, and clowns. It was a wonderful show designed to delight. Behind the curtains was where all the work happened. Everyone worked together to get the show ready except for the monkeys, who never worked hard or helped anyone else. The monkeys liked to make a lot of trouble. They used up the entire dressing rooms with their clothes and accessories, and forgot that they were the most important members of the circus. The clowns knew the audience loved them the most. There was a growing tension among the circus clowns, who did not like the unfair treatment. They plotted to get rid of the monkeys and half of the other animals on their tour. When the monkeys discovered the plan, they decided to leave and hold everyone else. The clowns would never work without them. The night of the big show, the monkeys watched in secret. They knew no one would be happy if they did not perform, and they wanted to see the clowns' reactions. The monkeys waited for people to leave. They waited for a cry of outrage. They waited for someone to throw rotten fruit. To their surprise, none of that happened. Instead, people laughed and cheered, they clapped and whistled for more. The monkeys understood that they were not the most important part of the show, and when they returned to the circus they began to act like a team.
