Fluid New York Cosmopolitan Urbanism And The Green Imagination:

Fluid New York May Joseph, 2013-07-02 Hurricane Sandy was a fierce demonstration of the ecological vulnerability of New York a city of islands Yet the storm also revealed the resilience of a metropolis that has started during the past decade to reckon with its aqueous topography In Fluid New York May Joseph describes the many ways that New York and New Yorkers have begun to incorporate the city's archipelago ecology into plans for a livable and sustainable future For instance by cleaning its tidal marshes the municipality has turned a previously dilapidated waterfront into a space for public leisure and rejuvenation Joseph considers New York's relation to the water that surrounds and defines it Her reflections reach back to the city's heyday as a world class port a past embodied in a Dutch East India Company cannon recently unearthed from the rubble at the World Trade Center site and they encompass the devastation caused by Hurricane Sandy in 2012 They suggest that New York's future lies in the reclamation of its great water resources for artistic creativity civic engagement and ecological sustainability

The Aesthetics of Necropolitics, Natasha Lushetich, 2018-12-11 Every politics is an aesthetic If necropolitics is the accelerated politics of what is usually referred to as the apolitical age what are its manoeuvres temporalities intensities textures and tipping points Bypassing revelatory and reconstructionist approaches the tendency of which is to show that a particular site or practice is necropolitical by bringing its genealogy into evidence this collection of essays by artist philosophers and theorist curators articulates the pre-perceptual working of necropolitics through a focus on the senses assignments of energy attitudes cognitive processes and discursive frameworks Drawing on different yet complementary methodologies visual performance affect and network analysis historiography and ethnography the contributors analyse cultural fetishes taboos sensorial and relational processes anchored in everyday practices or cued by specific artworks By mapping the necropolitics affective cartography they expand the concept beyond its teleological anthropocentric and reductive horizon of making and letting die to include posthuman and posthumous actants effectively arguing for the necropolitics transformatory political potential

Aquatopia May Joseph, Sofia Varino, 2022-11-16 Aquatopia documents Harmattan Theater's ecological interventions and traces its engagements with water bound landscapes colonial histories climate change and public space across New York City Venice Amsterdam Lisbon and Cochin The volume uses Harmattan's site specific performances as a point of departure to consider climate change and rising sea levels as geographical ecological and urban phenomena Instead of a collection of flat static surfaces the Aquatopia atlas is animated by a disorienting anti-mapping strategy producing a deterritorialized nomadic fluid atlas unfolding in real time as an archive of climate change in multidimensional active space The book is designed for pedagogical access with interludes that consolidate the learning outcomes of the experimental theory animating each site specific performance Accompanied by close descriptions of five performances and supplemented by digital documentation available online this volume intervenes in discussions on climate change urbanism and postcolonization decolonialization and contributes to interdisciplinary studies of ecology and environmental politics postcolonial decolonial theories and practices performance studies and aesthetics in particular public art and performance as research

Cities in the Urban Age Robert A. Beauregard, 2018-03-19 We live in a self proclaimed Urban Age where we celebrate the city as the source of economic prosperity a nurturer of social and cultural diversity and a place primed for democracy We proclaim the city as the fertile ground from which progress will arise Without cities we tell ourselves human civilization would falter and decay In Cities in the Urban Age Robert A Beauregard argues that this line of thinking is not only hyperbolic it is too celebratory by half For Beauregard the city is a cauldron for four haunting contradictions First cities are equally defined by both their wealth and their poverty Second cities are simultaneously environmentally destructive and yet promise sustainability Third cities encourage rule by political machines and oligarchies even as they are essentially democratic and at least nominally open to all And fourth city life promotes tolerance among disparate groups even as the friction among them often erupts into violence Beauregard offers no simple solutions or proposed remedies for these contradictions indeed he doesn't necessarily hold that they need to be resolved since they are generative of city life Without these four tensions cities wouldn't be cities Rather Beauregard argues that only by recognizing these ambiguities and contradictions can we even begin to understand our moral obligations as well as the clearest paths toward equality justice and peace in urban settings

Sea Log May Joseph, 2019-04-24 The ocean has always been the harbinger of strangers to new shores Migrations by sea have transformed modern conceptions of mobility and belonging disrupting notions of how to write about movement memory and displaced histories Sea Log is a memory theater of repressive hauntings based on urban artifacts across a maritime archive of Dutch and Portuguese colonial pillage Colonial incursions from the sea and the postcolonial aftershocks of these violent sea histories lie largely forgotten for most formerly colonized coastal communities around the world Offering a feminist log of sea journeys from the Malabar Coast of South India through the Atlantic to the North Sea May Joseph writes a

Scobey,2002 For generations New Yorkers have joked about The City s interminable tearing down and building up The city that the whole world watches seems to be endlessly remaking itself When the locals and the rest of the world say New York they mean Manhattan a crowded island of commercial districts and residential neighborhoods skyscrapers and tenements fabulously rich and abjectly poor cheek by jowl Of course it was not always so New York s metamorphosis from compact port to modern metropolis occurred during the mid nineteenth century Empire City tells the story of the dreams that inspired the changes in the landscape and the problems that eluded solution Author David Scobey paints a remarkable panorama of New York s uneven development a city building process careening between obsessive calculation and speculative excess Envisioning a new kind of national civilization bourgeois urbanists attempted to make New York the nation s pre eminent city Ultimately they created a mosaic of grand improvements dynamic change and environmental disorder Empire City sets the stories of the city s most celebrated landmarks Central Park the Brooklyn Bridge the downtown commercial center within the context of this new ideal of landscape design and a politics of planned city building Perhaps such an ambitious project for guiding growth overcoming spatial problems and uplifting the public was bound to fail still it grips the imagination Concrete and Clay Matthew Gandy,2003-08-29 An interdisciplinary account of the environmental history and changing landscape of New York City In this innovative account of the urbanization of nature in New York City Matthew Gandy explores how the raw materials of nature have been reworked to produce a metropolitan nature distinct from the forms of nature experienced by early settlers The book traces five broad developments the expansion and redefinition of public space the construction of landscaped highways the creation of a modern water supply system the radical environmental politics of the barrio in the late 1960s and early 1970s and the contemporary politics of the environmental justice movement Drawing on political economy environmental studies social theory cultural theory and architecture Gandy shows how New York s environmental history is bound up not only with the upstate landscapes that stretch beyond the city s political boundaries but also with more distant places that reflect the nation s colonial and imperial legacies Using the shifting meaning of nature under urbanization as a framework he looks at how modern nature has been produced through interrelated transformations ranging from new water technologies to changing fashions in landscape design Throughout he considers the economic and ideological forces that underlie phenomena as diverse as the location of parks and the social stigma of dirty neighborhoods
